Note

The illustration on page 1 was done by scanning a drawing I created of the Doodle Bug. I then drew a vector image in Illustrator with the basic colors, after which I imported the image into Photoshop. When in Adobe Photoshop then selected the basic color shapes to add dimension, using layer options. The background is a combination of images downloaded from a free images website, then changed the colors, content, and cropping to fit my design. Finally, imported the image into the QuarkXPress layout.
